

Waterline Studios Inc.

Denver Tech Center

Denver, Colorado

Client: Denver Tech Center

This 130 foot long water wall was given a high tech look by utilizing perforated stainless steel sheets that reflected sunlight by day and allowed underwater lighting to penetrate through by night. The pond was a fluctuating level irrigation supply so the nozzles were designed into flooded pools also fabricated from stainless steel sheet and acrylic backing. Lighting permeates the nozzle shells and provides for a constant water supply to the jets.

